Just a few things to consider – for more information on any of the listed pointers below browse this website for further information.....

DID YOU KNOW????

The TEACUP Yorkie if bred correctly and reared and raised by its owner correctly, can live every bit as long a life as the normal standard yorkie – up to 16 years of age. We have a Specialist Veterinary Physicians opinion on this as well – he agrees 100% with MIJOY. YOU do however have to have the lifestyle and the knowledge, to cope with this sized baby. WE DO NOT BREED WITH OUR TEACUP DOGS

The TEACUP if bred correctly is NOT a sickly dog.

Pups/dogs that suffer with repeated bouts of Hypoglycemia in all probability have an underlying health problem – consult your vet.

NO pup or dogs blood sugar needs to be stabilized by using GLUCOSE – If Glucose is used or needed – in all probability - there is an underlying health problem – consult your vet.

Scams – read more on this site about the scams running at present. In most cases the BIEWER terrier is targeted that they refer to as a parti-colour see advert on this site (maltese x yorkie cross) and the TEACUP yorkie.

We have been involved with the YORKSHIRE TERRIER BREED for 32 years – we are no overnight sensation.

We offer assistance and help – we call in the PROFESSIONALS

Info on your Yorkies coat – read our article – once again written for MIJOY by a Professional. Just a snippet from that article – it can take up to 3 years for your Yorkies coat colour to develop – however, your yorkie should be in full coat long before that. My tiny dogs coat is on the floor at a year of age. My larger sized yorkies at 18 months of age. If you have a dog with a BITTY coat, and it was BITTY as a baby, resign yourself to the fact, the dog has a poor coat.

All our pups irrespective of their size are sold as PETS, not even for that one litter. All our babies carry health guarantees. Read more....

We are not kennel breeders..... loads more information about us on this site.

We are passionate about our YORKIES, BIEWERS - We strive for the right owners for our very special babies. Read more on this site.

We reserve the right NOT to sell our tinies to anyone we feel does not have the lifestyle required to own such a small dog. Read more on this site.....

If a member of the public wants a teacup and we feel they are not suited to such a small dog, we will suggest a pocket - if they insist on the teacup size we will not supply them with a pup
